1. INTRODUCTION

We hold our suppliers, business partners and other stakeholder to the same standards that we hold ourselves. Running a good business means running a safe and ethical business that extends well beyond Jacobs.

Jacobs enjoys an excellent reputation in terms of the quality and innovation of our work, and in the way we keep honesty and integrity at the forefront of how we conduct business. Over the past six decades, we have earned our solid reputation through countless interactions with clients, suppliers, authorities and other stakeholders.

Every year we work on projects representing billions of our clients' dollars, and to do this we must have their trust. We always hold ourselves – and our suppliers and subcontractors – to the highest ethical standards. Our Supplier Code of Conduct is designed to provide clarity about our expectations of those we partner with to meet the needs of our clients; including suppliers, vendors and subcontractors. This document is an overview of the guiding principles and values that govern how we conduct business and make ethical decisions.

Your Supply Chain: When you work with us, you must also ensure that your supply chain complies with this Code of Conduct.

Asking for Help and Reporting Concerns: If you become aware of any ethical issues that may affect Jacobs, or have any concerns or questions, you should contact your Jacobs' Global Supply Management point of contact.
